Greetings,

This yearbook comes to you without promises and guarantees of a fairy tale story about our school. Instead, the editors and staff have tried to depict the "birth" of Annapolis High School in terms of reality and honesty.

Even so, we feel that this first pictorial diary of Annapolis is one representing all that we have accomplished through hard work and perseverance.

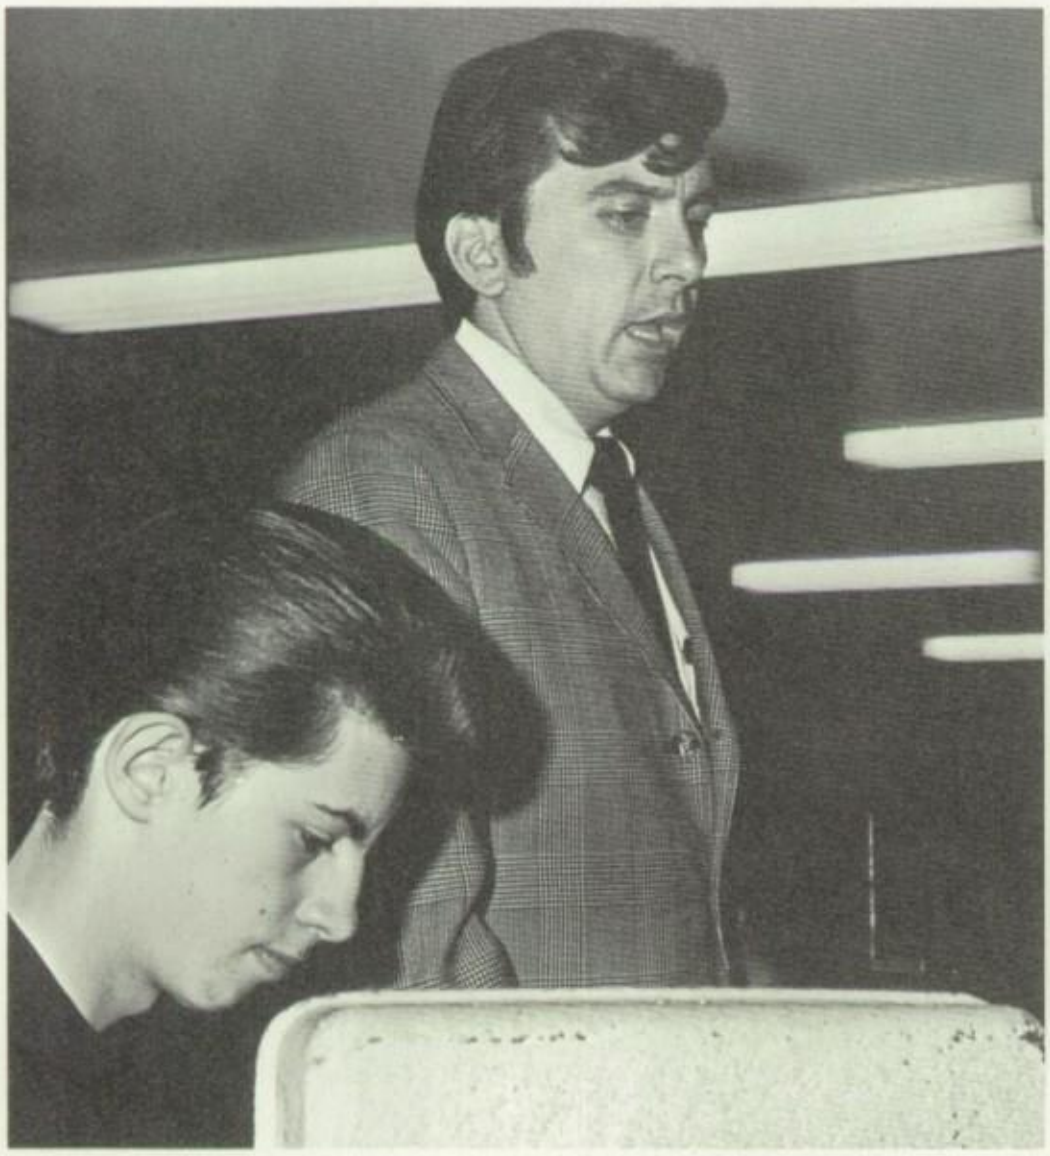
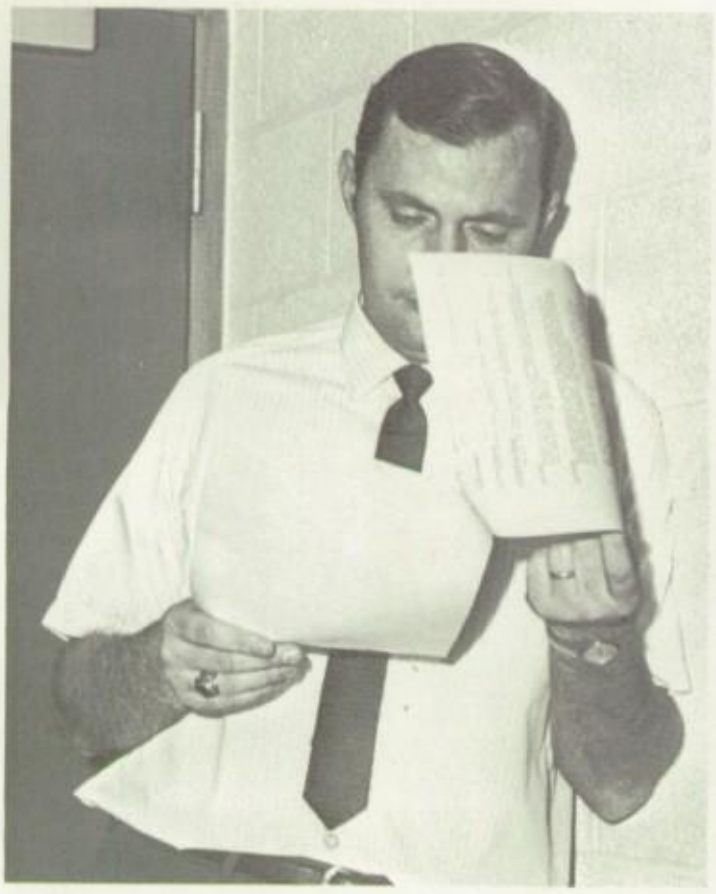
And They Expressed . . .





their skills, knowledge, opinions, fears, suspicions, animosities, anxieties, prejudices, humor, sarcasm, interests and devotion.

They had learned: from others, from experience. What they possessed was offered to us. As students, we were to sort, select and discard; to form ideals on such a foundation was our intent.

Think back – the achievements – what could have been.

It Was to

the experience. The idea of a high school — new, for faculty and students alike. The cover was old, worn by previous use. Its content was to be a rebirth of ideals.
Was this challenge met?
Only tomorrow holds the answer.

Together, We

Created the Essence.

With visible smiles, frowns, questions and answers, the faculty and students merged to construct a high school. Inner thoughts and emotions were freed, but also controlled – the buttress on which so much depends. Were they honest and of sound reasoning? The answer lies in the future existence of the creation.

In this year of Genesis, your graduation from high school is in truth just a commencement of your preparation for fruitful living. Your diploma merely certifies that you have received some basic principles toward your adult life as a good and useful citizen.

I strongly suggest that you read widely, because through reading you will constantly need to acquire more facts to enlarge your world. To convert these facts into useful knowledge, you must question what you see, question what you are taught, and question what you read.

There is a rapid change in the world today, but our moral values should not change. We cannot live without a code or rules. Your code must be re-created in your own experiences and discovered for yourself. This is the truly great adventure of life, to move constantly outward to the limits of your world and create for yourself the intellectual and moral framework which sustains it.

We, at Annapolis High School, send you into the outside world with confidence that you will always make us proud of you and do our school honor.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

Greetings:

The 1970 edition of the Annapolis High Catamount, portrays this school, its first graduation class and those to come.

The chief objective of the educational programs of our American democratic way of life is to produce competent, conscientious, loyal American citizens.

To carry out a good educational program for the youth of our community requires a well trained staff of teachers and administrators and a substantial investment in buildings and facilities so that every child may be assured adequate space and a full day in school every day of the school year.

It is our hope that this yearbook will help those who read it to have a better understanding of the services rendered through the public schools.

Regrettably, all who serve cannot possibly be included in this brief report. Nevertheless, it is to all who are "involved" that this summary is humbly dedicated.

Sincerely,
Orville Jones, Superintendent

LITERARY ARTS

The English department offers a variety of courses designed to meet the needs, abilities and interests of the students. For the first time this year each grade is offering three levels or tracks of English with the students going into the tracks which best suit them. In addition to the required English courses, there are other courses offered as electives. Among the electives are public speaking, drama, journalism, creative writing, French and Spanish.

Next year, juniors will be able to select any of the present electives to fulfill their senior English requirement. They can also choose the present 12A, 12B and 12C courses which have been renamed. It is hoped that this change will allow the students more variety in their English selection and that some students will take the opportunity to choose more than one English course.

the Fields of Science

The Science department is offering two new classes this year. They are project biology and physics. We are also offering chemistry, biology, and physical science.

Both of the new courses, physics and project biology, are geared for the college bound students of AHS. The physics course deals with the physical changes in matter. The project biology course is completely laboratory oriented, with the students conducting experiments and projects in the field of biology. This class helps those students who are interested in becoming laboratory technicians or in preparing for the medical field.

Biology

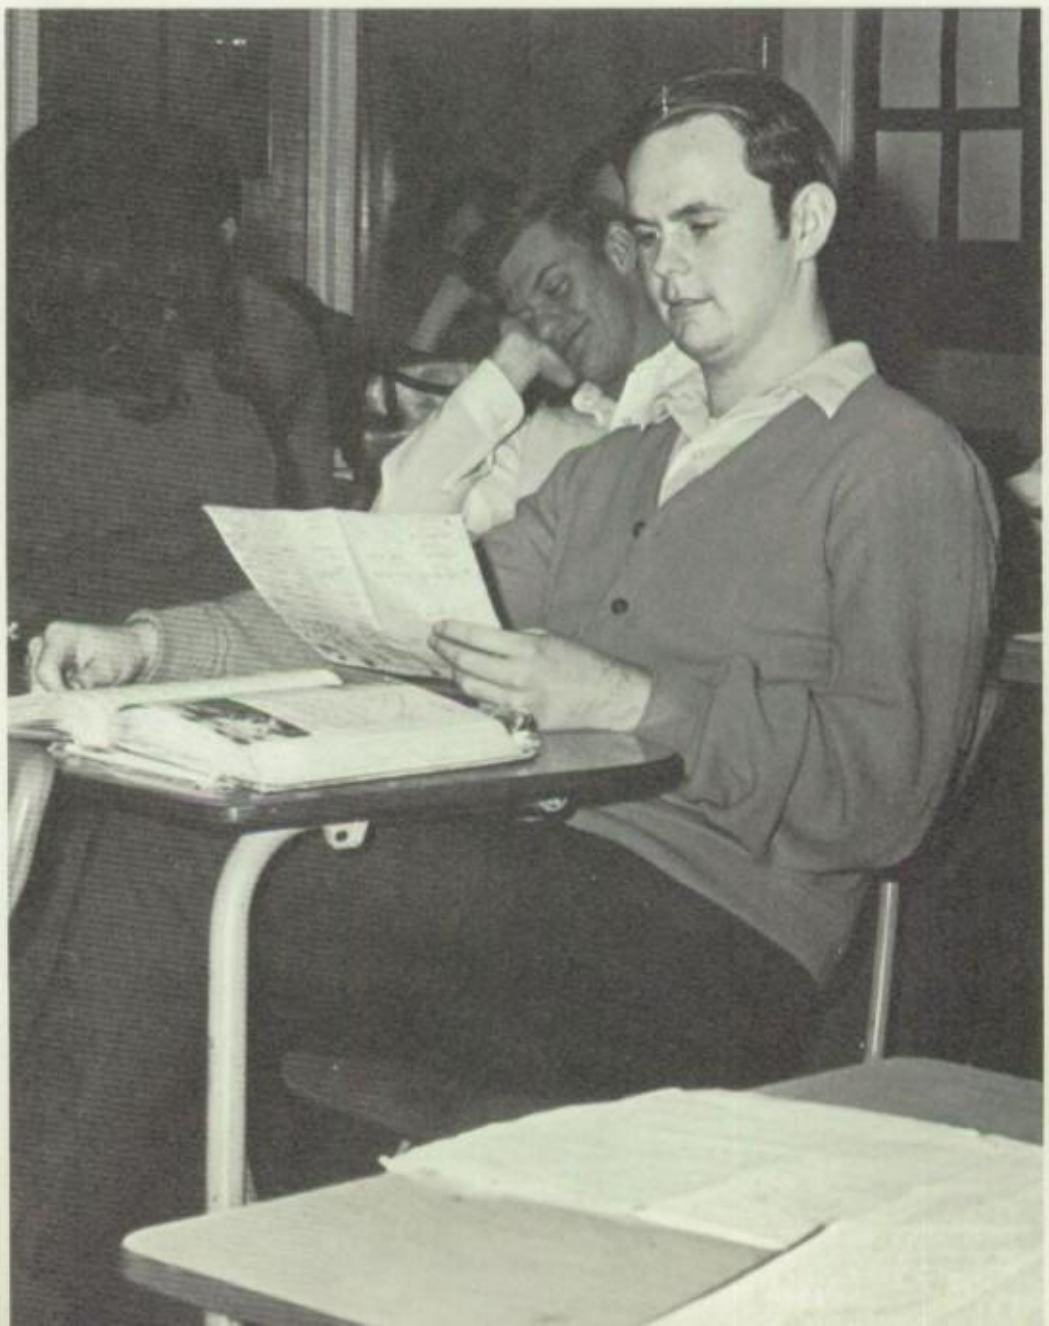
Social Studies

The social studies department has developed many new courses for each grade level. Among these are United States history, government, economics, sociology, world history, and inter-national relations.

One of the latest assessments to the social studies department is its complete upgrading of all audio-visual materials. This was made possible by the federal funds obtained as a result of the National Defense Education Act. These courses along with the new textbooks and modern equipment are offered so as to give AHS students the best instruction possible.

Top: Some of these questions are really tough. Top right: Miss McCarthy ponders serious questions on America's development. Right: Some study . . . some don't.



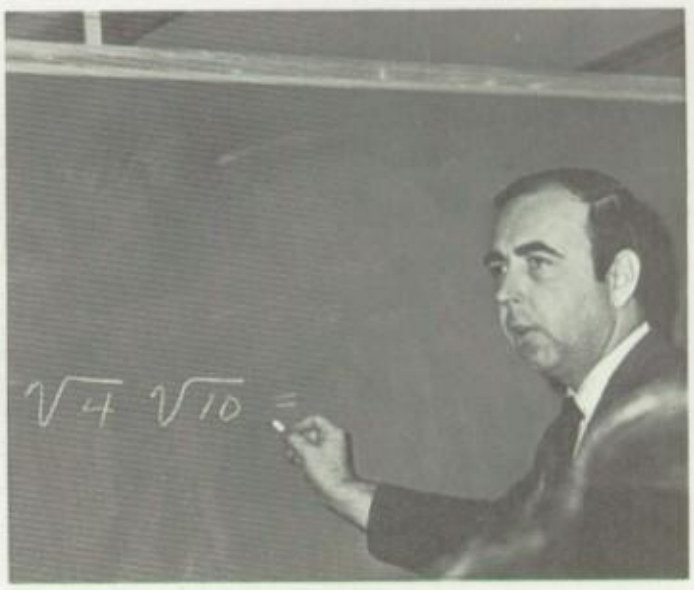
Top: Mr. Dummer points out a constitutional fact to Carolyn Culp. Left: American history also has its humorous side.

Mathematics

In our first year as a complete high school, forty per cent of AHS students have elective mathematics as an objective. This shows that we have quite a few students interested in this field.

This year students have filled the mathematics department's several different courses. Among these are integrated mathematics, integrated algebra, algebra 1&2, geometry, algebra and trigonometry, senior mathematics, advanced algebra, and precalculus. These courses help to prepare students for college, industry, or the business world.

These courses have been formed to fit the needs of all students at Annapolis High School. We hope that we can continue to offer courses in the future that will help other students to follow the footsteps of our first graduating class.



Top right: Mr. Jeffers looks on as Dave attempts to conquer a problem. Middle: Mr. Dabney explains square roots to algebra-trig. class. Bottom: Mr. Hawthorne substitutes in Mr. Collins' geometry class.

Home Economics

Along with the idea of graduation, many students might often think about getting married and becoming parents. With this idea in mind, the home economics department has added the courses of personal living, child development, and interior decorating to its program. These courses are designed to help both the young men and women of our school gain a better concept of the lives they will encounter in their future.

The two other sections of the home economics program are the foods and clothing sections. The food classes place emphasis on nutrition, preparation, management, and on consumer information. By making comparative studies, the students learn how to be creative in meal planning, preparation, and serving. The clothing program includes everything from the simple construction of everyday clothing, tailoring suits and coats, to making formals for graduation. Consumer buying, wardrobe planning, and textiles are also introduced to the students who explore this field of home economics. All of the classes in the home economics program are designed to prepare its students for the future.

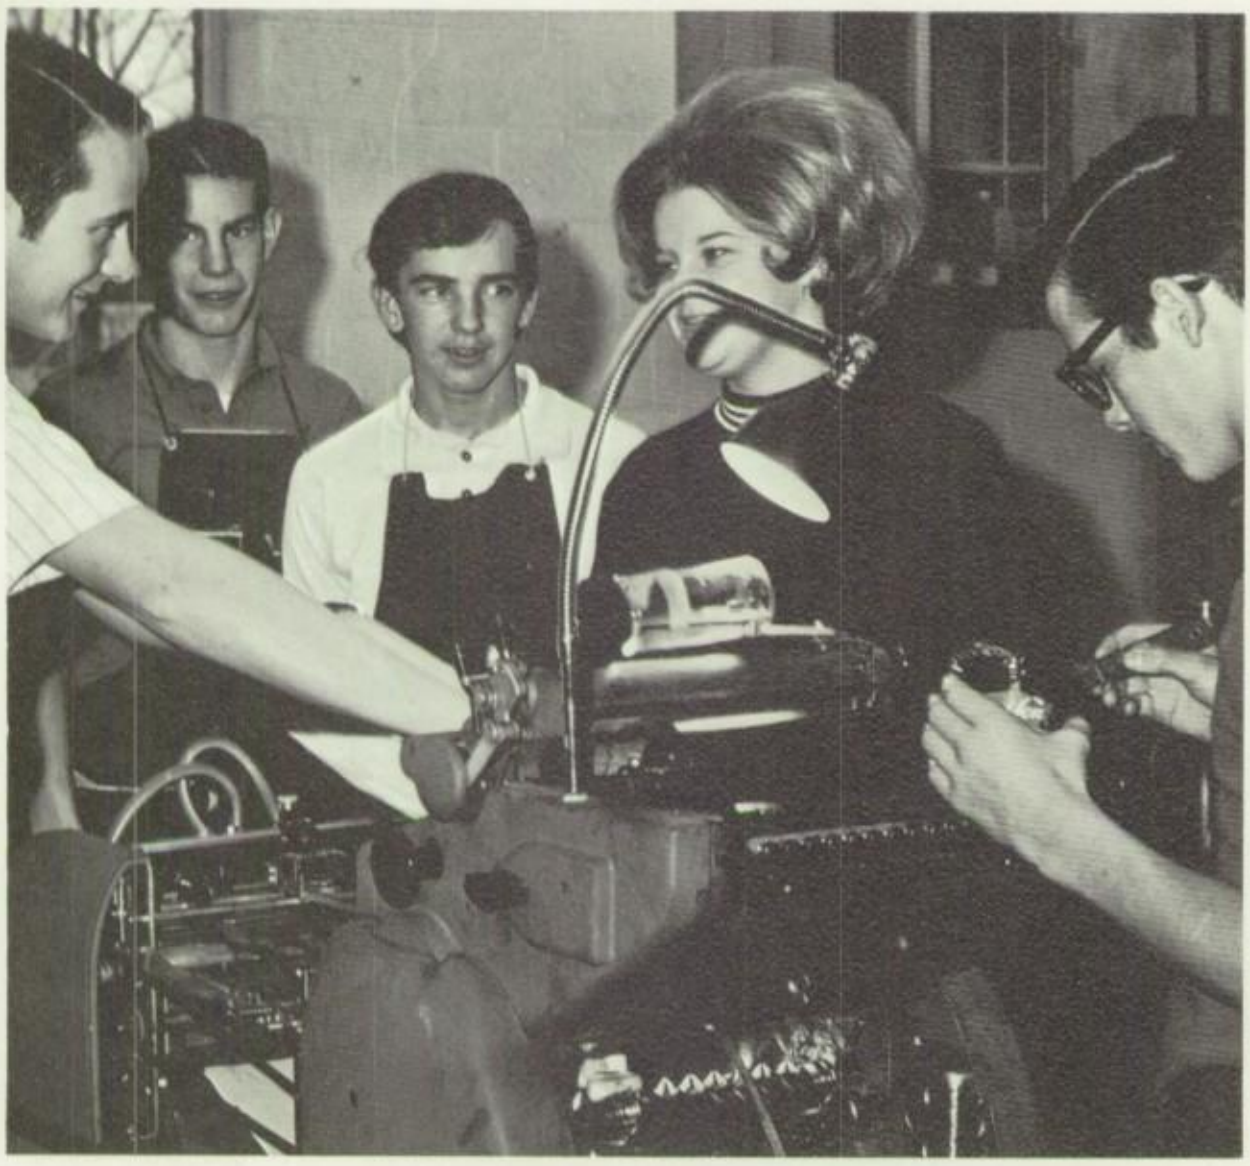
to Meet Future Needs



Printing

The Industrial Arts classes have prospered greatly during Annapolis' first year as a high school. With the aid of public funds, the metal shop and printing shop have been expanded thirteen feet. One of Annapolis' most recent accessions, the printing shop, is to be especially recommended on its up-to-date equipment. The other shops, too, have been equipped with brand new machinery and tools. The drafting room has been completely refurnished with large drawing tables to accommodate the good workmanship required for a job sought in the future.

Auto Shop

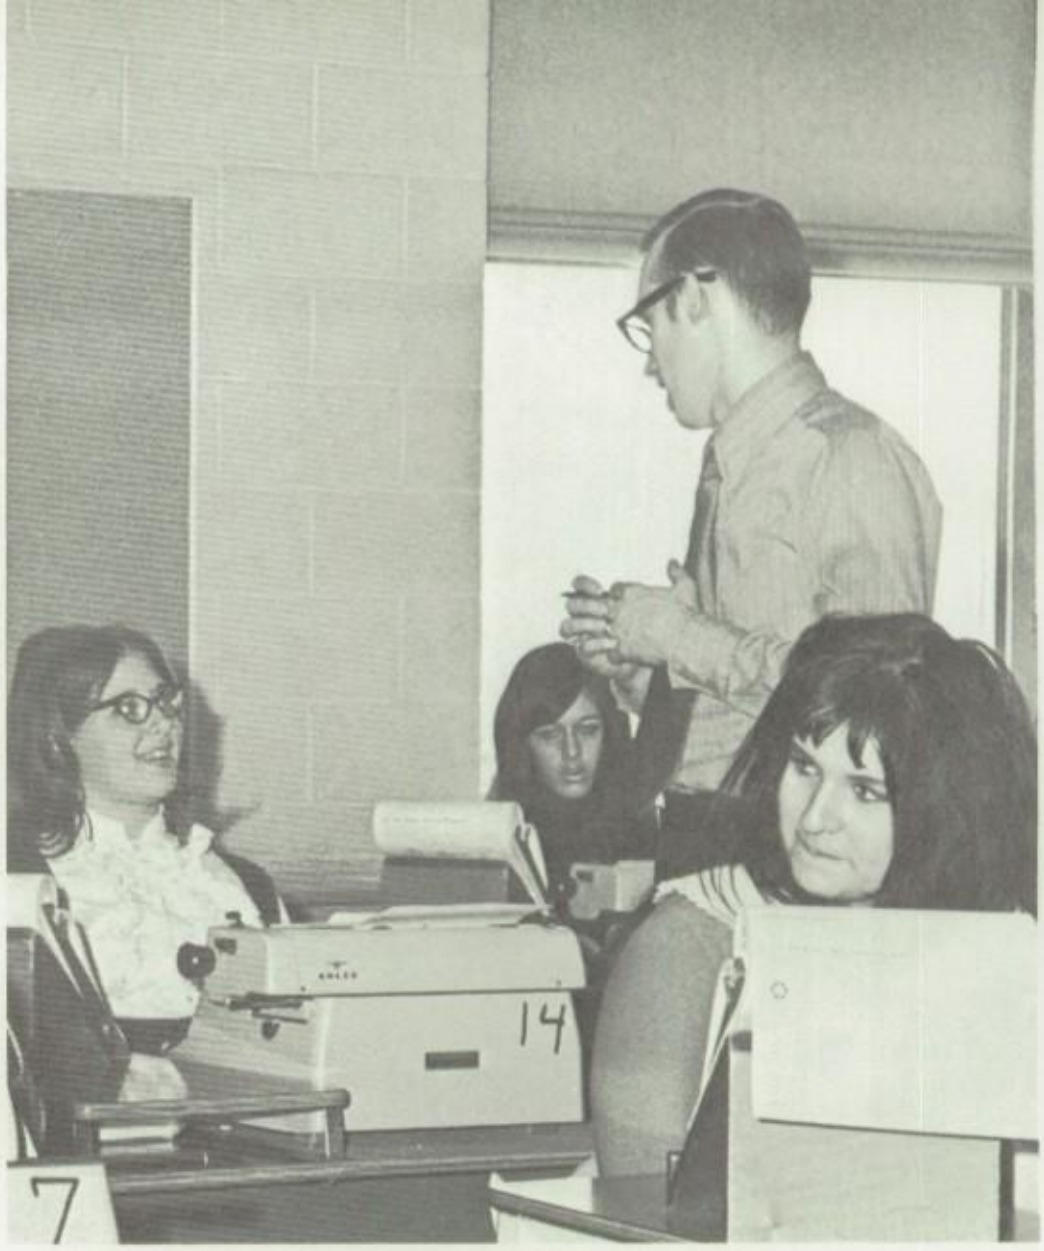
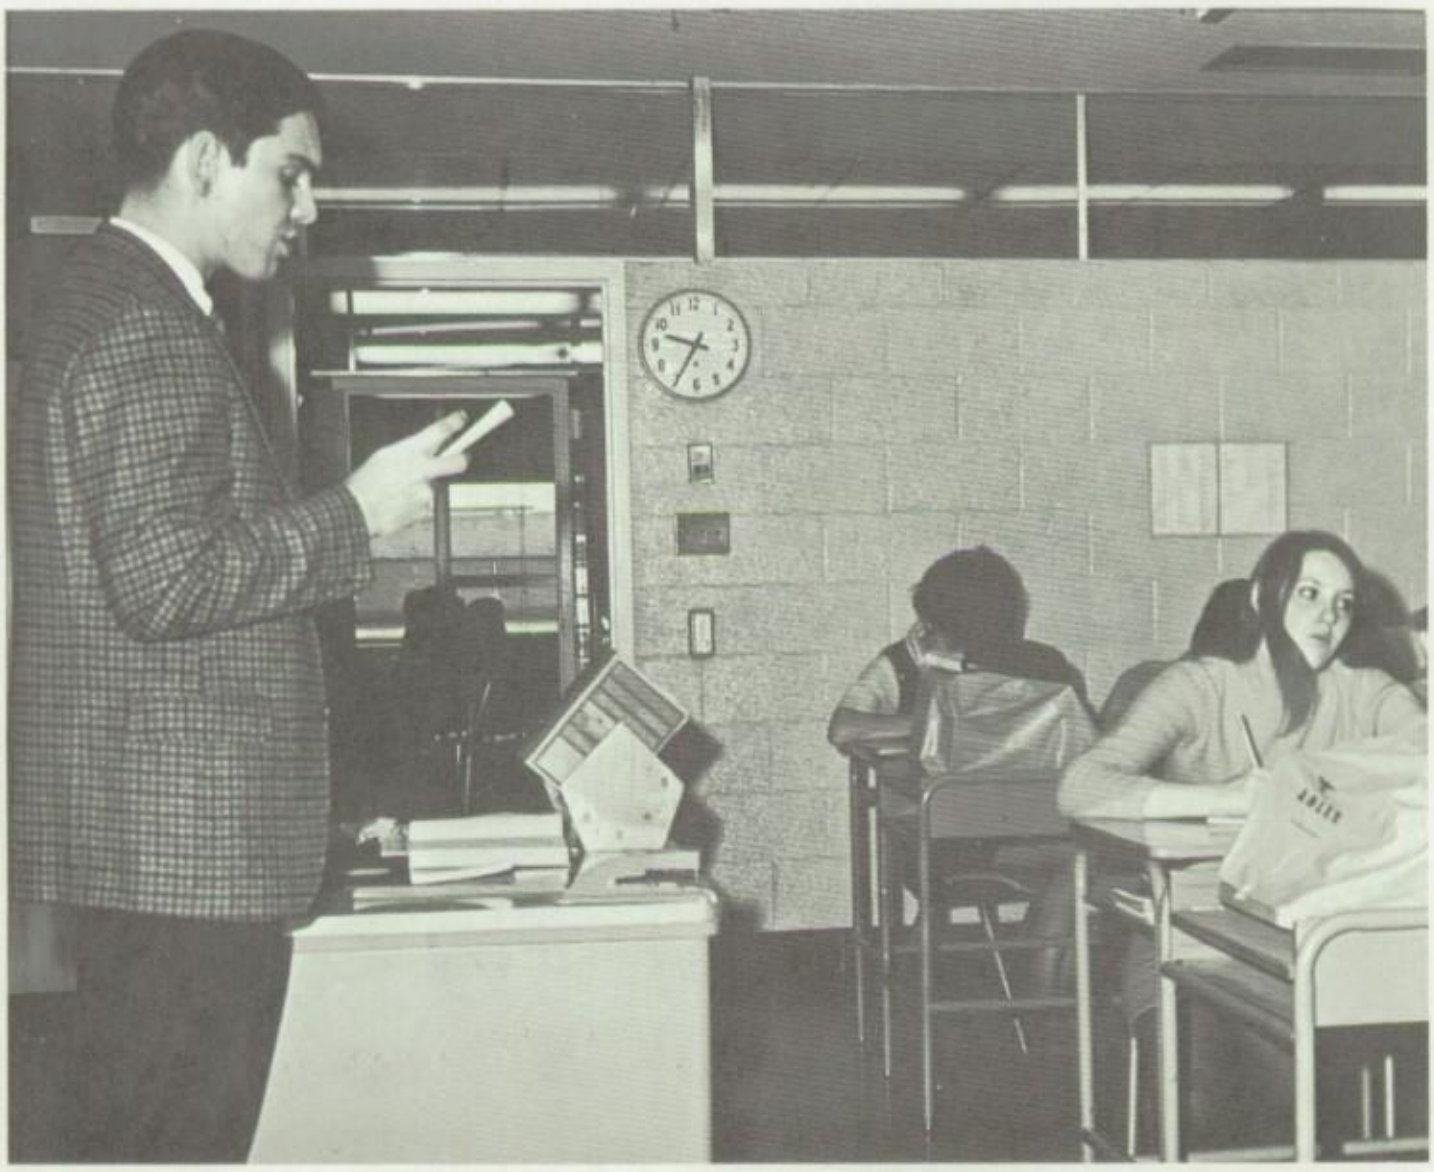
Business

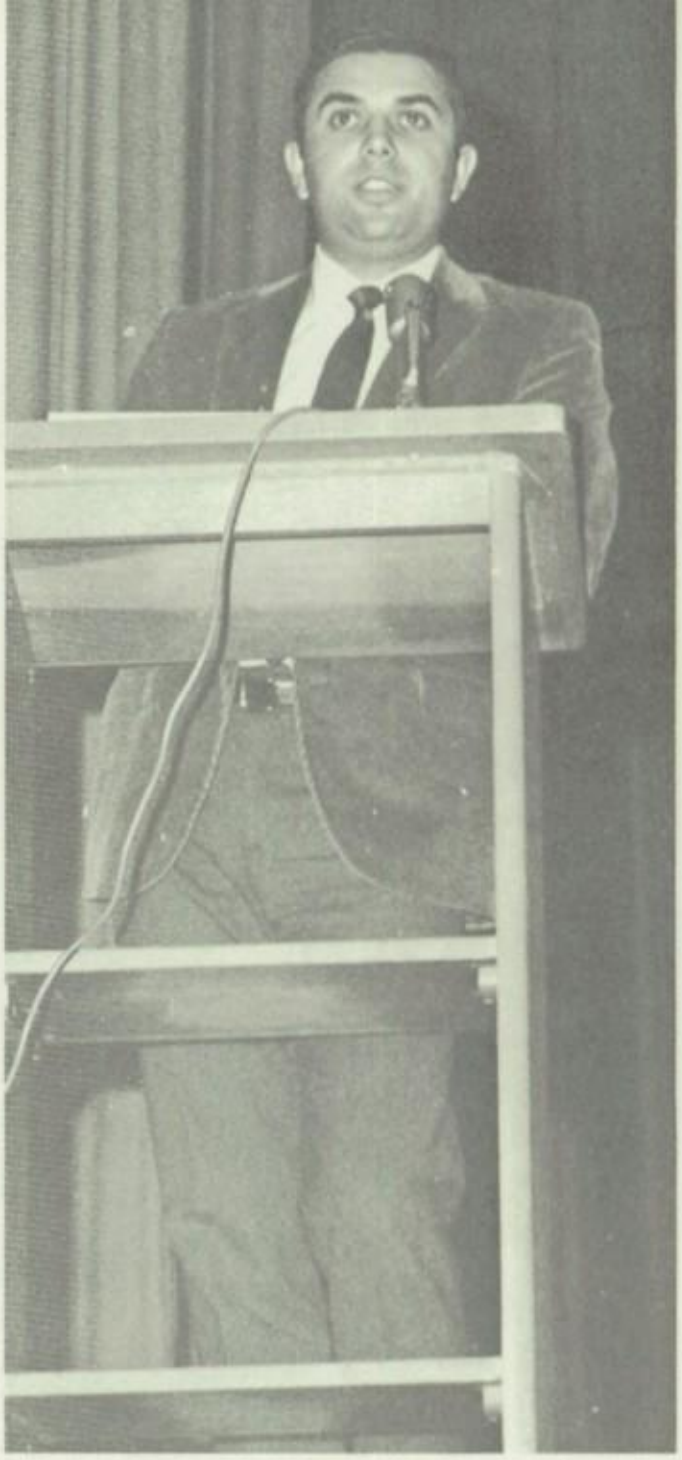
New courses that added well to the curriculum this year are advanced shorthand, sales/marketing, economics, co-op, and office practice. The acquisition of a combination office practice/typing room was probably the highlight in the department this past year. This office practice room has been equipped with adding machines, printing calculators, an electronic calculator, and four dictating/transcribing units. In addition to this, all advanced typing classes at Annapolis are now using new electric typewriters.



Right: Paula and Mr. Helner add a touch of humor to typing class. Bottom: Mr. Mars dictates a shorthand test to his students.



Top: Mrs. Piontek demonstrates the use of the electronic calculator. Bottom: Mr. Miazgowicz gives Sue a few helpful pointers in bookkeeping.



Co-op

For the first time students at Annapolis are participating in a co-op program. Under the direction of our co-ordinator, Mr. Russu, students are placed in jobs that are related to their courses of study. This offers them an opportunity to earn money on the job and to earn school credits needed for graduation.

Art

The art department gives each student the opportunity and freedom to create works of art in any media he may choose. Fine arts, commercial art, and crafts are included in the program. Except for learning specific skills, the student has his choice of the areas in which he works.

The best artwork is shown and/or sold each year in the spring art show.

Band

The purpose of the several courses of band is not only to perform but to learn music from different periods of history up to the present. The types of music studied are the Overtures, marches, ballets, popular concert pieces, and music composed specifically for the modern concert bands within a classical framework.

Although the AHS concert band is primarily a performing group for the football games, parades, and concerts, other music is presented and rehearsed that is not performed. This consists of material ranging from the pre-classical to the contemporary idiom. Many fine transcripts have been made for the band during the 20th century. This gives the band a chance to perform works by Beethovan, Berlioz, Tschaikowsky, Bach, and others.

Top: Mr. Bortolon, I know I can sing soprano!

Chorus

Chorus 1 & 2, 3 & 4 is an ensemble of students selected on an audition basis. The fundamentals of vocal technique and basic musical skills such as music notation and sight-singing are among the various things practiced in chorus. Chorus also covers repertoires, including short works by known composers along with a variety of popular works. Their main objective is geared toward performance.

The chorus performed with the concert band in the Christmas Concert and will again perform in the late spring. Their final performance of this school year along with the concert band will be at the graduation ceremony.

Phys. Ed. . . . A Sound Body

The physical education program has provided for the physical well-being of the students with a more complete program and better facilities this year. The classes have been learning in such fields as modern dancing, archery, tennis, fencing, gymnastics, life saving, basketball and other sports. Since this is the only exercise that many students get, the teachers encourage everyone to participate in the activities. In this way, they build up the physical well-being that every student needs to make him look and feel better.

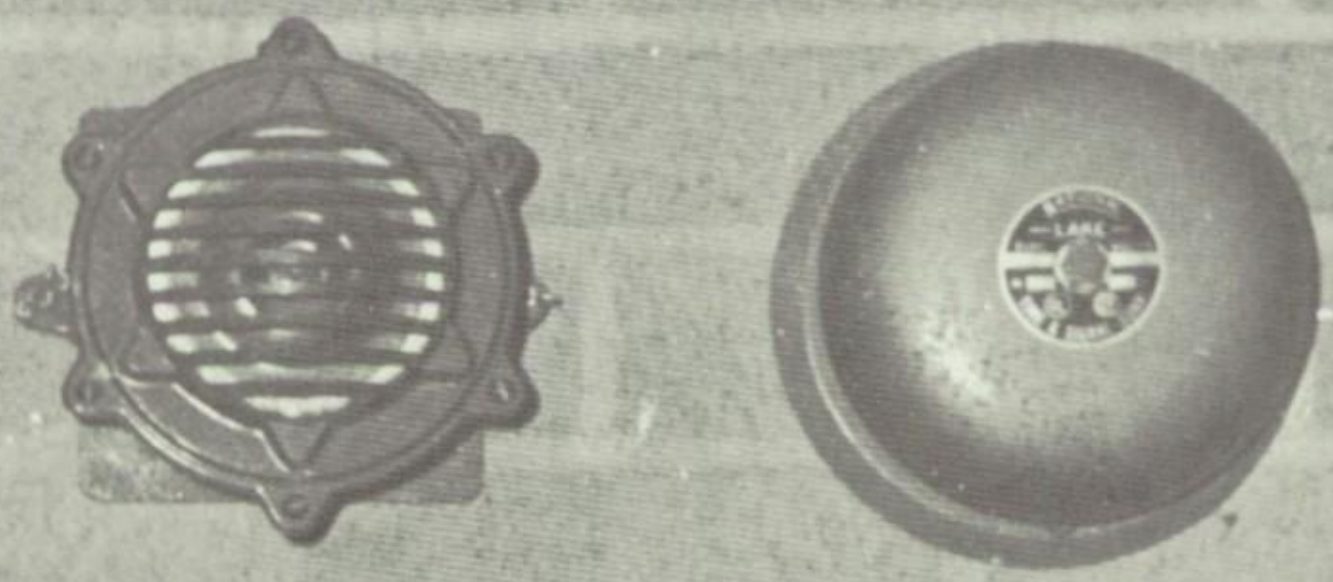
WE, THE CLASS OF SEVENTY...



. . . are unique. We are the original products of a new environment—Annapolis High School. During the past three years, we have been confronted with many experiences unknown to those who have never been part of a "first." Those experiences: trials and tribulations, joys and disappointments, hopes and frustrations, have made us the individuals we are today. Perhaps, we are better for it, in some way more prepared to face the greater obstacles awaiting us in life. In any case, as we make ready to leave, we bring you a few of the last moments we shared being first.

. . . are honored to be the first Junior class of a newly full-fledged high school. During the birth of A.H.S. the Juniors proved successful in their endeavor in both athletics and academics.

Under the supervision of Mr. Corey, the Junior class sponsored fund-raising activities, in the hopes of having a successful Junior Prom.

Spirit, this year, flourished in the hearts of all Juniors. This was particularly evident in the great percentage of Juniors who showed up at our games, be it in rain, sleet or snow!

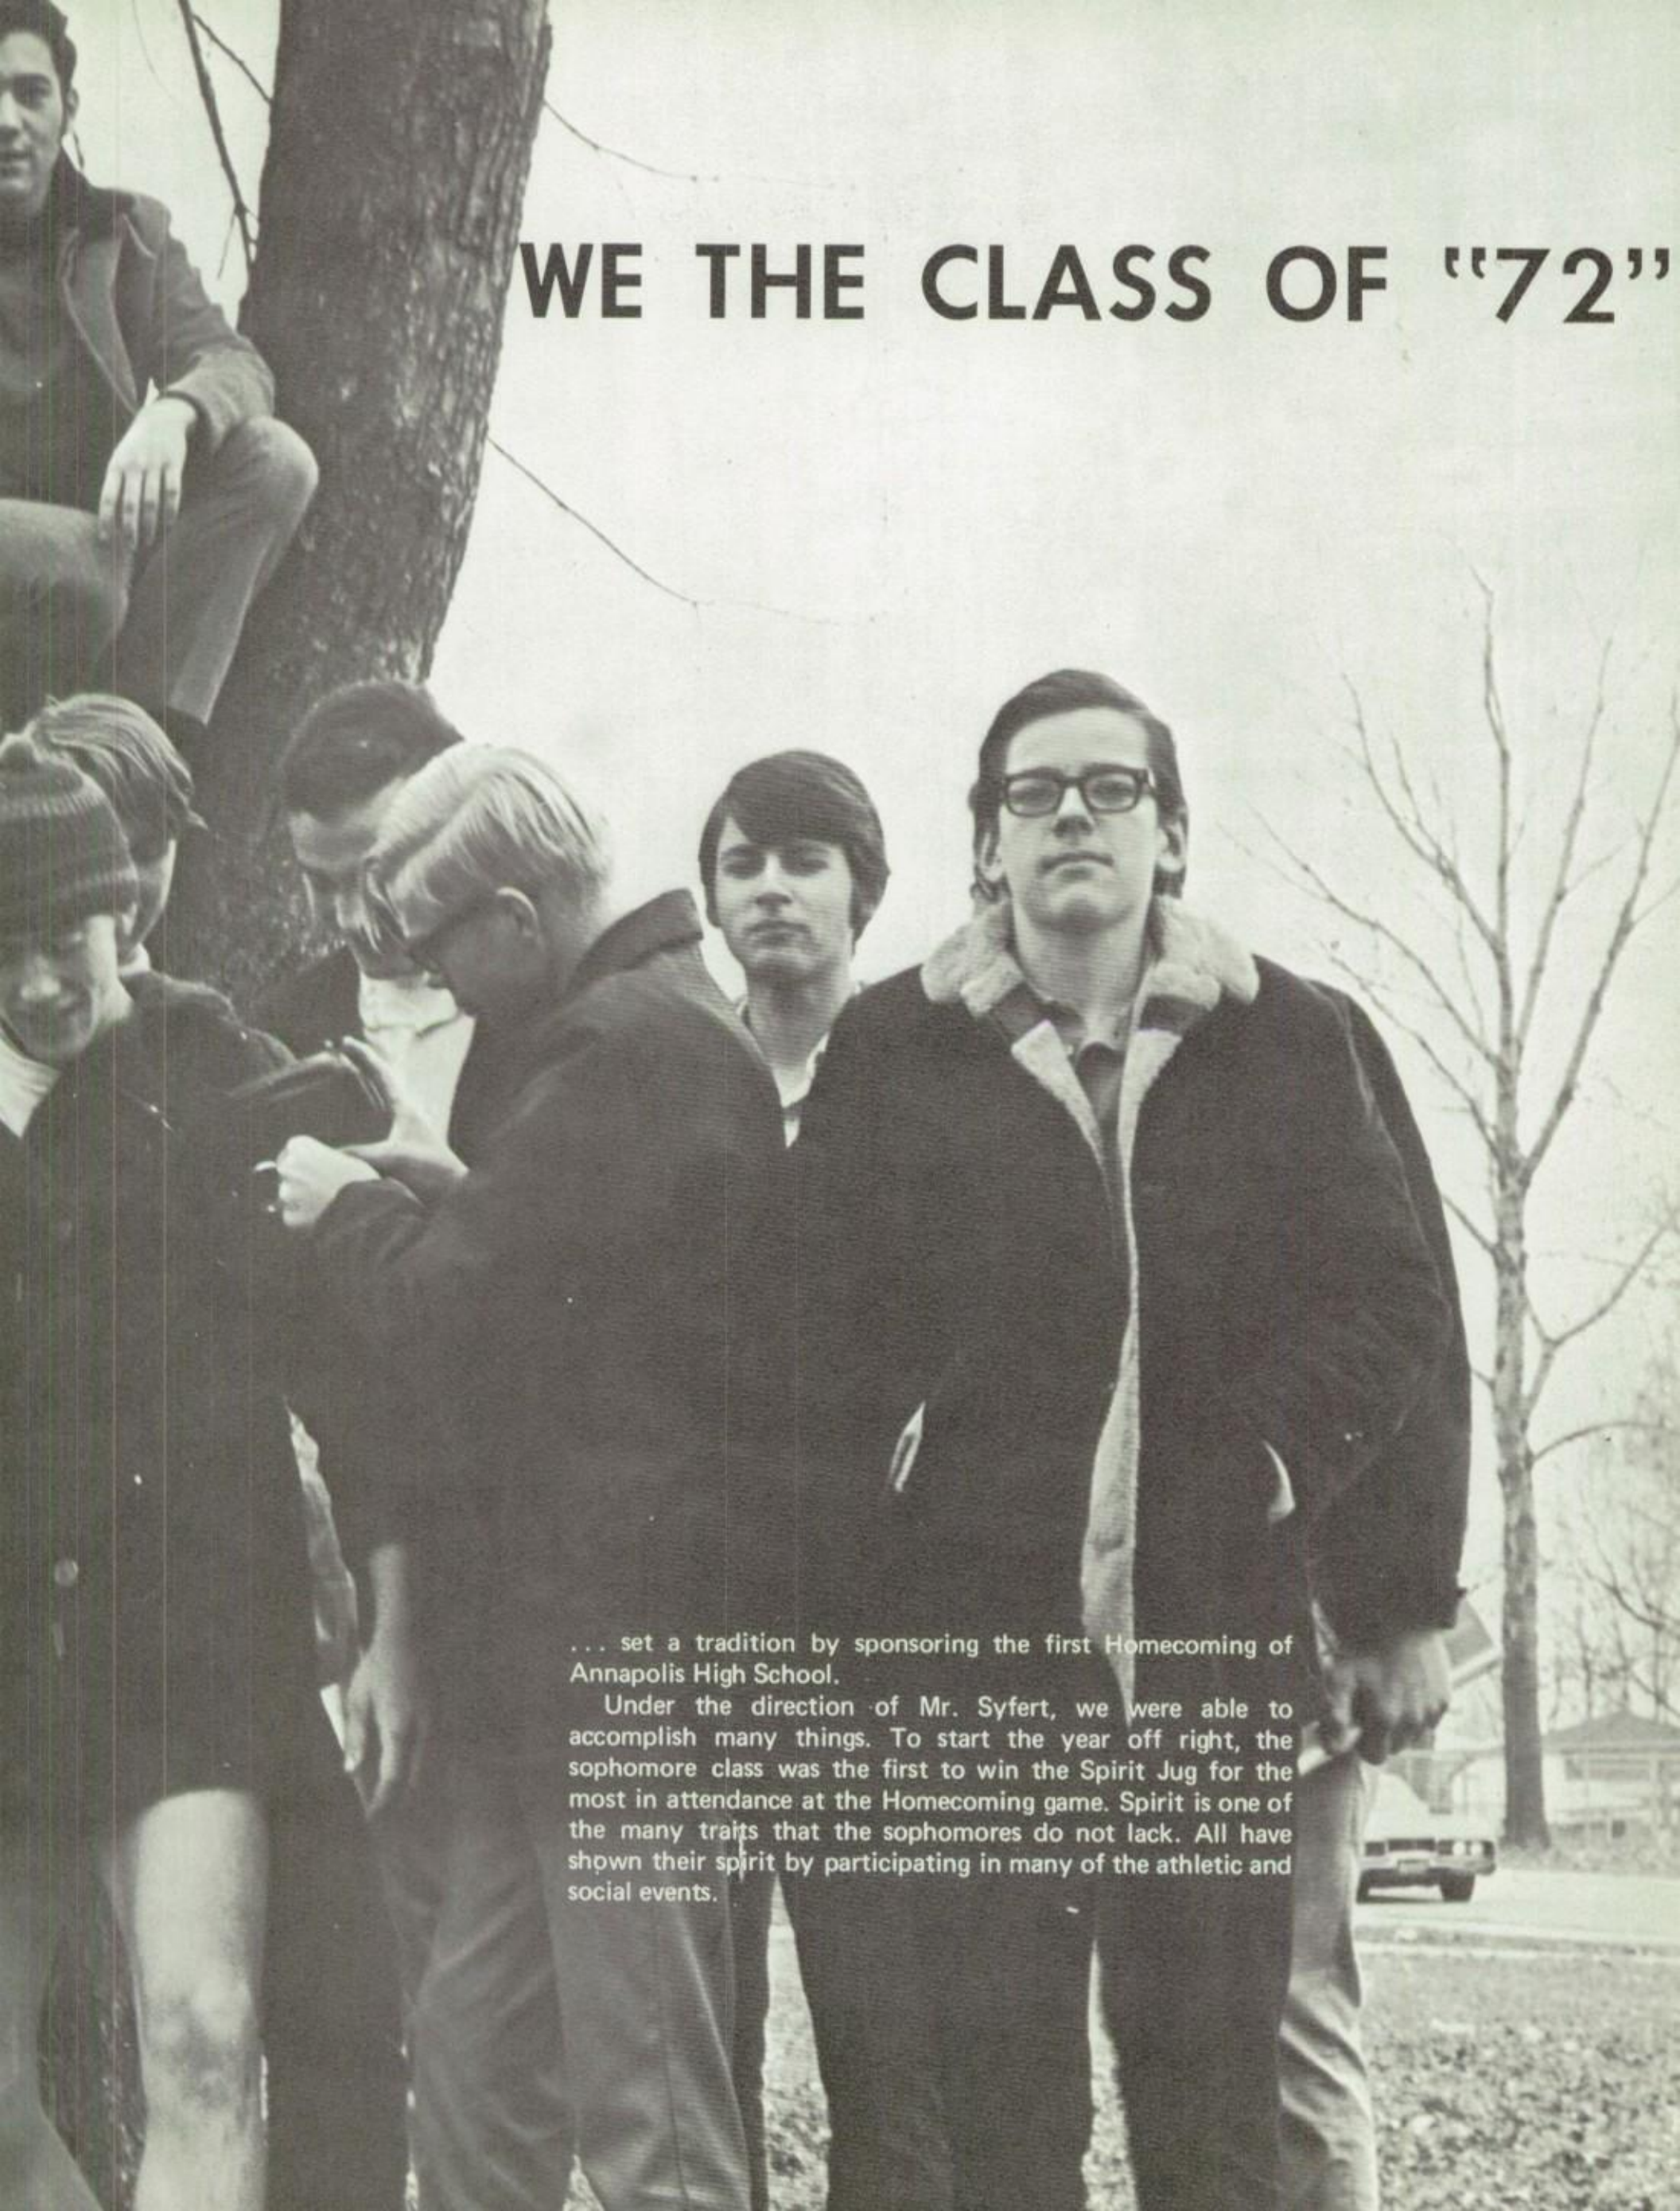
WE THE CLASS OF "72"



. . . set a tradition by sponsoring the first Homecoming of Annapolis High School.

Under the direction of Mr. Syfert, we were able to accomplish many things. To start the year off right, the sophomore class was the first to win the Spirit Jug for the most in attendance at the Homecoming game. Spirit is one of the many traits that the sophomores do not lack. All have shown their spirit by participating in many of the athletic and social events.

ACTIVITIES

. . . taking part in school functions . . . being yourself . . . having fun. Since the formation of Annapolis High, more and more activities have been added to the program, enabling a greater number of students to get involved. Activities have become just as much a part of a student's life as academics. Participating in activities helps students to gain experience for the future while doing something they really enjoy. A wide variety of clubs and organizations, dances, games, concerts, pep rallies, and assemblies keep A.H.S. students interested and busy.

AHS 1st Homecoming

Homecoming, October 24, 1969, was the first in the history of Annapolis High. The homecoming included a parade, the first in which our marching band appeared. After an exciting football game with Wayne Memorial, the cougar spirit still "rode its crest" into the evening's Homecoming Dance. At the dance the first queen, Ann Marie Schroka, was honored. Although AHS students and faculty had only a short number of days to plan the festivities, the first homecoming was truly a success.

Cougar Cheerleaders

The Cheerleaders at Annapolis High are chosen to be leaders and to organize the student body in order to arouse enthusiasm and interest in school activities. Because these girls represent AHS, high standards are maintained and a constitution followed whereby the girls realize the honor their position commands. This year the cheerleaders made and sold paper flowers and held bake sales in order to raise money for the summer cheerleading camp. These girls work hard to create Cougar Spirit and their efforts are appreciated by the entire student body and faculty.

National Honor Society

Since Annapolis became a high school, the National Honor Society has worked to bring the accomplishments of outstanding students to the attention of their classmates, their parents, their community, and the colleges they plan to attend. The object of this chapter has been to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote vigorous leadership, and to encourage the development of character in each of its members.

Membership in the National Honor Society has become recognized nationally as one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a high school student. Membership is, however, more than an honor; it carries with it a responsibility and obligation to demonstrate those outstanding qualities which give value to man's existence.

"The most precious gift of all, human compassion ."

The members of the Annapolis High School Chapter of the National Honor Society have achieved the highest goals set forth by the national organization. The most rewarding of those achievements has been in the area of service and character. The Honor Society members committed themselves to a vigorous fund-raising campaign which earned fifteen hundred dollars. This money was spent on a year long program of delighting disadvantaged youngsters with Christmas and Easter parties, toys, and field trips. However, the most meaningful contribution made by the society can be expressed through a quote from Sister Jean Welling's letter to Mr. Dummer which stated, "Your students gave more than just their time and effort to my children, they rendered the most precious gift of all, human compassion."

The Sophomore Class at Annapolis High School holds several ideals as valuable in the growth and development of students.

The first is a learning of the process of leadership. Both the officers and the representatives are given many opportunities and responsibilities, both for conducting meetings and organizing the activities they are involved in. The faculty advisor remains as the name implies, an advisor and counselor.

The class is also promoting fellowship among the members of the class. They have held several activities for the class members and their guests, in order to provide both an opportunity to develop friendships and to promote strong class unity.

The sophomore class has sponsored several activities. Included in these are money raising projects such as bake sales and concessions at athletic events. The class also held a class dance in the spring, sponsored the homecoming parade, half-time ceremonies and the homecoming dance.

The Junior Class motto for the school year of 69-70 is "Cherish." These students care for Annapolis High School and have sponsored many functions in order to promote this feeling to the entire student body.

Holding car washes and selling confectionaries at games helped the Juniors raise money for their Junior Prom held in April.

The class collected food, including cookies and kool-aid for the soldiers in Vietnam and toys for the children of the D.J. Healy Home. Helping to plan the first AHS homecoming was another activity they took pride in.

Through these activities the Junior Class has helped to advance our school's name and to foster a united school spirit.

Senior Class Council

The Senior Class Council's primary aim is to plan and coordinate the activities of the class as a whole. They have sponsored several activities including a dog-sled race during Pride Week. The class's fantastic work on the senior float earned them the 1st place trophy. The senior class also hopes to have established the tradition of selling mums at the annual homecoming game.

Although mistakes have been made, it is the hope of the senior class that future classes will benefit from them. Chances had to be taken in order to set some precedents for the classes that follow.

The Future Teachers Club is a new organization at Annapolis High this year. Through this organization, students interested in the teaching profession learn about the opportunities, responsibilities, and problems of being an educator.

The club provides the students with an opportunity to explore their interests and abilities in relation to the various fields of education. Many of the members get involved in the club's tutoring program. These students devote time after school to helping youngsters in all the elementary schools of District #7.

The Future Teachers Club is manager of the paperback book store. They also sponsored a Thanksgiving Dance, "The Turkey Trot", which proved to be a huge success.

Student Council

Effective, constructive student power is the aim of Student Council. Its purpose is to unite the students and represent them in influencing school conditions and policies. Student Council has helped make A.H.S. a more pleasant place by adding a senior lounge, music in homerooms and the cafeteria, and a marquee for the front of the school. Activities it has sponsored, such as Pride Week and a hootenanny-talent show, have been aimed at building student pride and unity. After analyzing information from a school-wide poll, Council has represented student opinion on various school policies. In its power and its purpose, Student Council is the most important student organization at Annapolis.

Catamount Staff

The Annapolis High School yearbook emerged in 1970 with a new name: CATAMOUNT. Its staff members wished this year's book to pay tribute to the birth of Annapolis as a complete high school, its first graduating class making this possible. The diligent – but often undersupplied – staff members spent countless hours of their own time striving to make CATAMOUNT a truly memorable account of the 1969-70 school year: YEAR ONE in what appears to be a brilliant future for the school. It is the hope of the CATAMOUNT staff that this book will be a sound beginning for even better yearbooks to come.

DOES A NEWSPAPER DO ?
DO NOT DISTURB

Journal Staff

The purpose of the Journal is to inform and to offer a place for student expression.

A big question hangs over the staff's heads as to what the students want or should be informed of. "Telling it like it is" becomes hard, but the staff of the Journal picked up ideas from the student body each year in order to progress in student journalism.

This year seventh hour brought Debbie Brunner, editor, to lead the staff in idea-producing staff meetings. Assignment sheets, dummy layouts, selling greetings, deadlines, and revisions marked the learning experience in room 7. Halfway through the year Annapolis printing classes started printing the Journal, thus saving the "ice cream fund" for other activities.

VARSITY CLUB

The Varsity Club is a service organization benefitting athletes at Annapolis High School. It helps to stimulate interest in all sports, including basketball, baseball, football, swimming, track, wrestling, and cross country.

One of the main goals of the organization is to help improve and start traditions concerning athletes. The boys stress good grades, citizenship, and superior athletic ability in their individual achievements at AHS.

Camera Club

In its first year, the Camera Club has had its members exploring the field of photography behind the camera and in the darkroom. Its main purpose has been to expose its members to film development, enlargement, and reproduction. Under the watchful eye of their sponsor, Mr. Dzodin, students learned the proper way to mix solutions and care for equipment. They also learned about the finer details of photography such as how to take clear, sharp, pictures and combine them with texture in the darkroom.

Medical Careers Club

The Medical Careers Club is an organization of students, both boys and girls, interested in persuing careers in the medical and health fields.

The goals of this organization are to bring to the students opportunities to investigate the many and varied medical and health careers, so as to give the student a broad view of what is available, where the opportunities may be, which institutes of high learning may have the appropriate curriculum, what the costs may be, which scholarships are available and how to apply for them.

Another goal of the Medical Careers Club is to take part in and perform community services especially where it is related to health. Example of community service is assistance with the Flu Vaccine Clinic held for school personnel; assistance with the Van Born Community Council Rummage Sale – profits are used to assist indigent students in this school district with physical examinations, dental care, other emergencies such as medication, shoes and clothing where needed immediately.

In the coming year the club plans to set up a current Health Reference Material Section for the school library, which would assist students in health education and science classes by supplying current authentic health education material.

The Christmas project this year involved a program at the Dearborn Heights Convalescent Home on Thursday, December 18, 1969, which consisted of singing Christmas Carols.

The summer project will involve locating jobs in the various health fields for those able to work and finding voluntary health work for those who are too young to get working permits.

Booster Club

The Booster Club meets to promote school spirit by arranging transportation to games away from school, making up a cheering section at all sports events, decorating the place where the sports event is held, and advertising all school sports. Anyone with satisfactory citizenship who has a lot of pep and an interest in good sportsmanship may join.

This year's activities included two trips to distant football games. Two bus loads of boosters spent several hours traveling to Bay City to cheer for the Cougars as they played the Bay City All-Saints football team. Annapolis played Flint Flushing on November 14, 1969, and again those stalwart boosters were there cheering as the mercury dipped to 25°.

On December 19th the Booster Club put on the first annual Christmas Dance for couples only. Booster Club also shared in the activities of the second annual Pride Week held in February.

Musicmakers

The band here at Annapolis has proven to be an extremely active organization. Not only does the band have four separate groups – Marching band, Concert Band, Pet Band, and Stage Band – it also sponsors weekly doughnut sales, flower sales on special occasions, and bagel and bake sales monthly. Band's largest project was its candy sale, which netted the band enough money to pay for the shoulder nests on the uniforms. The newly established marching band was invited to play in Hudson's Thanksgiving Day Parade, and a parade and concert at Greenfield Village in the spring. They also took part in U of M's Band Day, which in itself was a unique experience.

SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING

To stimulate interest in swimming for show is the biggest aim of any swim club. It teaches girls to work as a group and to be individual as well, when working on solo performances.

In the spring, the Sychronized Swim Club presented a performance entitled "The American Scene". This show included acts concerning the Roaring 20's, the Era of the Minstrels, a Circus, and a Burlesque show.

The goal of the Debate Club is to foster discussion and critical analysis of current social and historical problems. It provides students with an opportunity to express their viewpoints, exchange ideas, and test their opinions in the light of objective criticism and understanding.

Girls' Basketball

Last year the Dearborn Heights Recreation Department began a Girls' Basketball League. This league was open to any area high school group. Competition in the league helped to bring out the best athletic ability a young lady could offer. The girls were inexperienced, but they had a great deal of "git up and go" – they really wanted to win.

This year the girls formed a team of their own with the help of their coach, Mrs. Newingham. They played schools in the Dearborn Heights area, including Crestwood and Riverside. The girls failed to win any games, but had a lot of good times trying.

GAA

GAA includes a variety of physical activities which the girls decide upon. Through GAA the girls can participate and grow socially as well as acquire knowledge and skills of different types to supplement those they acquire in class. The activities that the girls selected include basketball, gymnastics, modern dance, bowling, tennis and softball.

To help the club work together and encourage enthusiasm, GAA has organized a point system. Each time a girl participates in a Tuesday night activity she receives 5 points. Toward the end of each activity a tournament is held between the teams, and the members of the winning team each receive 5 points. Also each girl may join in extra activities to receive 2 points. At the end of the year those girls with the highest number of points receive a letter. Other regular members receive GAA pins at the spring banquet.

The Hall Monitors at AHS function as a service organization. They consist of volunteers from study halls, and they work during those periods. These students must maintain a C or better average, plus a good attendance record and reasonable citizenship record.

A monitor's job is often a thankless job, but nevertheless an important one. His chief functions are to check hall passes while classes are in session, to report to the assistant principal any hall activity which may be disruptive to the classes, and to direct visitors to the office to obtain visitation permits.

Mr. Strome and the teachers are generally pleased with the work the hall monitors are doing. Everthing seems to run smoothly, so smoothly, in fact, that the occasional snoring you hear coming from some distant corner of the building may be one of our restful monitors.

Library Staff

The Annapolis High School library is run by Mrs. Cass and a staff of eleven girls. These girls are the backbone of the library. They check out books, shelve books and assist other students in finding books and magazines. In addition, each student has a section of books to keep neat and in order.

This year many new books were added, including the Encyclopedia of Philosophy and the Great Books. A new cabinet was furnished for the picture file. Also, there are now two microfilm readers and microfilm for seven magazines.

In their effort to convert to a high school library, they have donated 1,000 books to Best Junior High. To enable for expansion another eight section stack was added. These improvements and additions have been made for the benefit of the students and teachers at AHS.

SPORTS

SPORT: the challenge; the sacrifice; the winning; the losing; the learning; the agony and the joy of accomplishment. In the beginning, there are the long practices, whether on open fields or indoors protected from the cold of winter. To remember the things that only the athlete sees: the sweat, the work and the grind. To tune the body and mind for the final test; the meet, the match, or the game. Also, to try to learn the meaning of pride.

This section is dedicated to those people: the young men that have given countless hours of work season after season, to better themselves and make athletics at Annapolis, something we are grateful for and very proud of.

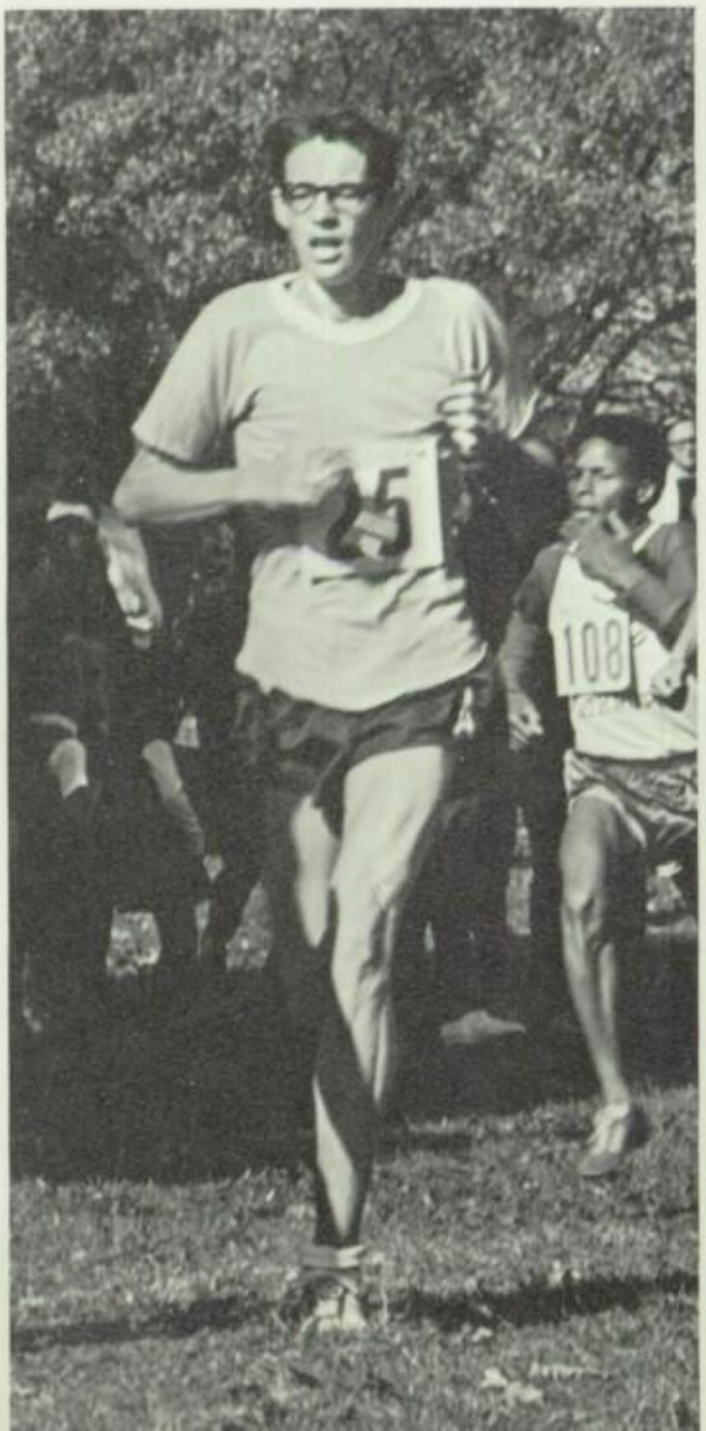
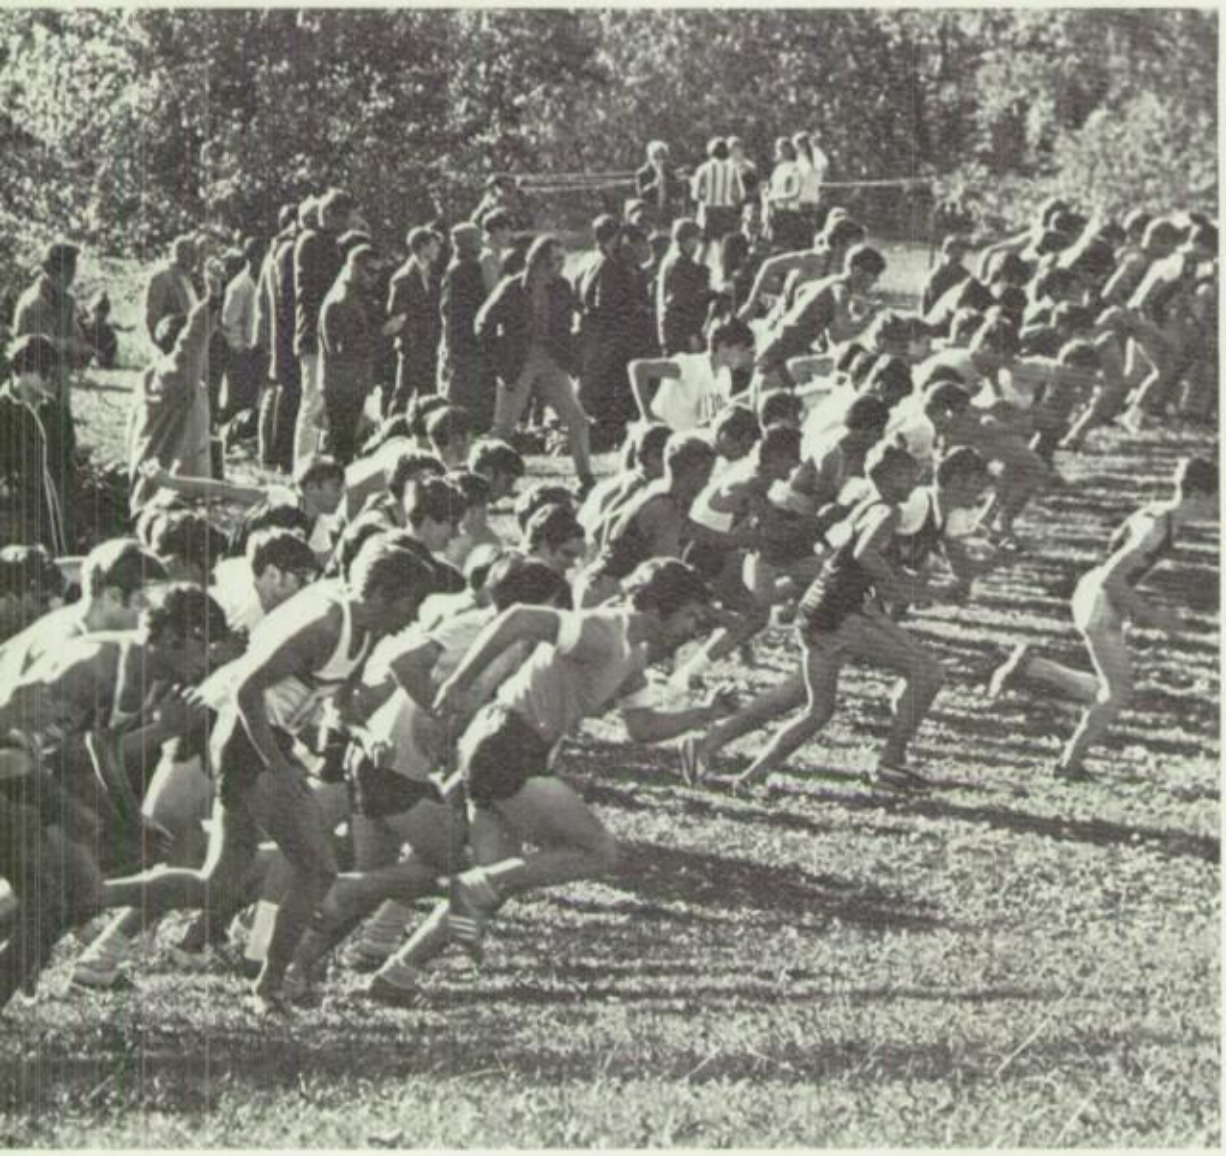
Cross Country

Fall 1969





Cross-country combines the scenic beauty of the fall season with the color and spirit of athletic competition. Individual achievement is important, but a complete team effort is necessary for a successful season. Duel meet competition prepares the runner for big meets, which often contain one-hundred or more harriers in a single race. This year's team was the largest in the three year history at Annapolis. Because of this, there was greater team rivalry between runners in order to maintain their varsity status. With the help provided this year by the underclassmen, Annapolis can look forward to being well represented in the future, as it has been in the past.

ROB CORBETT

Rob,

If I tried to put on paper all the qualities that make you so adorable to me, I'd run out of room, but, believe me, I appreciate every one of them. In addition to loving you, I'll always admire you as a person. I've enjoyed my senior year more than any other because it's been shared with you. You're so much fun to be with, and I'll never forget all the good times we've had together. There isn't anyone else who can make me laugh the way you can. I look forward to a lot more happy times with you and this gives me something to be glad about when things get me down (as they occasionally do). I think you've got to be the most understanding guy in the world and this really means a lot to me. I've never known anyone like you before. There is so much to your personality — you have such a rich, full mind, and you're also fun-loving and down to earth. Thanks for making me the luckiest girl in the world.

Love,

ROB CORBETT

Rob,
You've always been one of the sweetest guys I've known
You have many other good qualities about you too- I'd list them all but I wouldn't want your head to swell so you can't get your cap on. I'm sure you will attain great heights in life, for you have the abilities. Best of luck and always be happy

BASEBALL

The 1970 Varsity Baseball Team played fourteen games against other contenders in the Mid-Wayne league this season. Many new teams scheduled this year didn't play AHS last year, since we weren't established as a complete high school. The Cougars finished the season with a 9-5 win-loss record and hopes for an even better season next year.

The reserve baseball team finished the season with a 5-8 record with hopes that they will make an even better record next year. Due to photography problems, pictures are unavailable.

TRACK

The Cougar track team faced it's most challenging season this past year. With all meets being held away until our track field is completed with the new stadium, the Cougars were under stress without much student support. Personal performances, however, have improved as many of the Cougars have dedicated themselves to the sport through both the meets and long hours of practice.

This page: Events such as the high jump and the shot-put displayed the boys' skills. Right: Good running ability helped a great deal.

Spring Entertainment

Among the sources of entertainment this spring were drama class, student council, and chorus.

The drama class presented two plays, "If Boys Had Worn the Skirts" and "The Bonehead Case." The first dealt with the dress code problem, but the boys were wearing the skirts. The latter was a farce dealing with "higher education."

Student Council proved successful in their second hootenanny of the year, starring "Donny Bee-Bop and his Honky-Tonk Men" once again.

The chorus, under the direction of Mr. Bortolon, performed in the Spring Concert and made their final appearance at the Commencement Exercises.

Faculty and Students Work Together to Improve AHS

The project biology class, with the constructive help of Mr. Sviland, has succeeded in building a pond in the court. The project was started by Jim Olsen, who will continue throughout next year by collecting various species of fish.

In cooperation with the various projects conducted by the city during Mother Earth Week, the FTA members and sponsor Miss McCarthy cleaned up the school area.

"A Time For Us"

After a hard year's work of planning and preparation, with the aid and direction of Mr. Quigley, the Class of 1970 held Annapolis' first senior prom. The prom took place at Mercy College on Friday, June 5. The Blue Knights provided excellent entertainment.

The senior class chose ebony and ivory as their prom colors along with scarlet and white roses as their flowers. Truly one of the most highlighting traditions set by the Class of 1970, the occasion was one to be remembered by all who attended.

COMMENCEMENT

Annapolis High's very first commencement took place on Thursday, June 11, 1970. Commencement ceremonies were held at the Dearborn Youth Center, where hundreds of friends and relatives saw the "original" Seniors receive their diplomas. Among the speakers were Valedictorian, Jackie Bays and Salutatorian Jane Katona.

Lions Game

On April 10, the teachers of School District 7 Education Association played a pitiful basketball game against the Detroit Lions. The purpose of the game was to raise funds for two scholarships to be awarded to graduating AHS seniors.

District 7 teachers put up an outstanding struggle against the Lions but were, unfortunately, defeated, despite their efforts.

"Educators want all worthy students to have an opportunity to continue their education."
